

Located in Scottsville, Kentucky Howard's Harvest Market is hard to miss! With a focus on local produce and goods from farmers and artisans, they are always looking for new producers to help showcase their products!

Tip #1: Derek, who is one of the owners of Howards Harvest, says any form of communication works with him. Whether you stop in, give him a call, shoot him an email, he's always willing to give local products a shot at his store.

Tip #2: As long as you have whatever requirements and certifications that are required by the Health Department or the Department of Agriculture, I'll try to get your product on our shelf.

Tip #3: If your product is unique and you're a little hesitant to reach out to other buyers, come see us! We'll give you shelf space and see what we can do. We are always looking for new and exciting local products and are willing to try anything. We'll be honest if this is something that doesn't work later on down the road but new products are always worth a shot.

Tip #4: Derek is very flexible and open to all sorts of communication styles. One thing he asks is that if you begin a relationship with Howard's Harvest is to be communicative with them. If you can't make delivery or need another day before you can get him your product, let him know. Honesty is the best policy!

MarketReady™

<https://www.facebook.com/HowardsHarvestMarket>

